What is WordPress?

WordPress is a Content Management System (CMS). That just means it is a piece of software that can help you manage and organize your content into an impressive and coherent website.

InitiallyWordPress was created as a blogging tool, but over the years it has become so much more than that. Today, manyWordPress driven sites look nothing like blogs (unless that's what the user wants). This is down to the flexibility of this amazing tool.
WordPress powers simple blogs, corporate websites and everything in between. Companies like Sony, theWall Street Journal, Samsung, New York Times,Wired, CNN, Forbes, Reuters and many others, all use WordPress as part of their online presence.
WordPress is 'open source', meaning that all of its code is free to use and customize. This is one of the powers of WordPress, since programmers the world over have created their own additions to this powerful publishing platform; from website templates to plugins that extend the functionality of this amazing site building tool.

Comment author must have a previously approved comment
Comment Moderation
Hold a comment in the queue if it contains 2 or more links. (A common characteristic of comment spam is a large number of hyperlinks.)
When a comment contains any of these words in its content, name, URL, email, or IP address, it will be held in the moderation queue. One word or IP address per line. It will match inside words, so "press" will match "WordPress".
Comment Blacklist
When a comment contains any of these words in its content, name, URL, email, or IP address, it will be put in the trash. One word or IP address per line. It will match inside words, so "press" will match "WordPress".
Avatars
An avatar is an image that follows you from weblog to weblog appearing beside your name when you comment on avatar enabled sites. Here you can enable the display of avatars for people who comment on your site.

Privacy Policy Page
As a website owner, you may need to follow national or international privacy laws. For example, you may need to create and display a Privacy Policy. If you already have a Privacy Policy page, please select it below. If not, please create one.
The new page will include help and suggestions for your Privacy Policy. However, it is your responsibility to use those resources correctly, to provide the information that your Privacy Policy requires, and to keep that information current and accurate.
After your Privacy Policy page is set, we suggest that you edit it. We would also suggest reviewing your Privacy Policy from time to time, especially after installing or updating any themes or plugins. There may be changes or new suggested information for you to consider adding to your policy.
Edit or view your Privacy Policy page content.
Need help putting together your new Privacy Policy page? Check out our guide for recommendations on what content to include, along with policies suggested by your plugins and theme.

Comments

WordPress posts are date-dependent and chronological and this separates them from pages which are date-independent and not really related to any other piece of content on the site.
Posts were originally designed to be ordered by date, with a post you created yesterday logically appearing lower down the page than a post you make today. Newer posts are inserted at the top of the page, and older posts are pushed off the bottom.
